Subject: VIOLENCE ON T.V.

It seems that there should be more dedication to eliminating violence not only on T.V. but on video games, music recordings, etc. Since this type of "entertainment" attacks children during their formative years, it surely influences their "numbness" towards acts of violence and even death as they grow older. Certainly we've seen the results of this influence in the deaths and maiming of other children by these twisted minds.

The current critical attack on the Janet Jackson debacle is sort of an irony. How many have been killed or maimed as the result of a bare breast?

Perhaps there should be a commission established to investigate the positive results on children raised in a more open nude environment from birth to adulthood. I am confident the results would be surprising, especially to the so called puritan right wingers. We've found these children and young adults to be scholastically advanced with higher self esteem and sense of presence, and, without the all too common pre-marital sex and pregnancy problems so prevalent,

Subject: Violence on TV

Dear Ms. Abernathy:

The Tampa Tribune has published an article giving the FCC web site and the request to speak up regarding violence on TV.

Violence on TV has been escalating over the recent years until now it seems to be too much of what is available to view. It needs to be curbed drastically.

In addition, the character of sitcoms is deteriorating into loose sexual liasons, alternate life styles, and the like. It is definitely dumbing down. I watch less and less TV because of these types of offerings, but continue to enjoy programs with value, such as HGTV, the Travel Channel, Discovery Channel, and so on. PAX TV seems to offer better quality programs than the networks do.

Thank you for allowing me to express my views.

Sincerely,

Subject: Violence on TV

Dear Sir:

My newspaper (The Tampa Tribune) today has published an article stating that the FCC wants to hear from individuals regarding the amount and level of violence on TV at this time.

It has been escalating and growing worse every year. I believe it contributes to violence within our society much more than has been recognized or admitted.

In addition to violence, TV shows have been dumbing down over the past several years. Those who make the choices for developing new sitcoms certainly do not represent the values of most Americans. I am referring particularly to loose and immoral sexuality which, in the end, downgrades the family and those of us who want to live decent, moral lives. I must add that I do not appreciate the pushing forward all the homosexual issues either. I can choose not to watch them, but there are many young people watching these shows who are not old enough to know how to live their lives yet and who are easily influenced. By the way, I have a homosexual relative, so please do not think I am speaking from ignorance of this issue.

My TV watching consists mainly of the Travel, Discovery and news channels, along with some old timers like Cosby and I Love Lucy, and PAX TV. I will not watch the others I have mentioned above, and prefer not to even support their sponsors by buying their products.

Thank you for letting me share my thoughts.

Sincerely,

Althea Brandon

Since you want public input on control of the airwaves, I'll volunteer. I don't want any censorship or control at all. I want there to be swearing, nudity and violence on TV if that's what people want to see. There's no need for government control of the airwaves.

Subject: TV Violence on Network Commercial Plugs

Mr. Copps,

Please keep up your stance on TV Violence, especially in the evenings. Though the programming before 9PM has improved, its purpose is minimized and negated when commercial plugs for shows like CSI or Law & Order are run as "hooks" during the 8pm EST programming hour. These commercial plugs are loaded with graphic content about murder, prostitution, drugs etc. that are hard to keep from kid's. CBS is leading the way for these plugs for their shows and it's getting more provocative and graphic every year.

Please keep up the fight to limit this escalation of wanton violence and sexual content on the Television airwaves.

Subject: Please help stop TV filth

If you want to help protest against the "the most outrageous show I have ever seen on advertiser-supported basic cable" TV, please forward this message to everyone in your e-mail address book who shares your family values.

More and more parents and grandparents across the country are disgusted by the rise of shocking sexual content, foul language and unbelievably bloody violence on TV.

My name is Brent Bozell and I'm the President and Founder of the Parents Television Council (PTC), the national grassroots organization of nearly one million members that was founded in 1995 to ensure that children are not constantly assaulted by sex, violence and profanity on television and in other media.

The PTC is leading a campaign to stop the degrading filth on shows that are available to millions of children...and we're doing it by targeting irresponsible SPONSOR companies that continue to pay for the filth.

And today I'm asking you to add your name to a WARNING TO THE SPONSORS OF "NIP/TUCK," the basic-cable offering on the FX network that pumps out an unbelievably raunchy stew of curse words, explicit sex and nauseating, bloody violence every Tuesday night.

It was Melissa Caldwell, the PTC's Director of Research and Publications, who described "Nip/Tuck" as the "most outrageous show" ever on basic cable TV, and that's saying a lot. Because Melissa and her staff of PTC analysts record and analyze every minute of every entertainment program on all the networks and selected cable channels.

They see it all, and in their judgment, "Nip/Tuck" is the worst!

If we don't protest this show, we might as well give up and let the TV filth merchants have their way!

If you want to verify for yourself how disgusting "Nip/Tuck's" content is, you can read actual details -- featuring fountains of blood, nudity, explicit sex acts, and gutter language -- on our PTC web site. But I warn you, it is grossly disgusting and extremely offensive. Read it only if you have the stomach for it. But whether you read it or not, please go to <http://www.parentstv.org/ptc/action/niptuck2/main.asp> today and add your name to the WARNING TO THE SPONSORS OF "NIP/TUCK."

These sponsors have financial responsibility for making "Nip/Tuck's" gross content available to children in 85% of America's households.

And -- shockingly -- these sponsors include such nationally-known, "respectable" brand names as Toyota, XM Satellite Radio, the sports channel ESPN, Samuel Adams beer, internet provider Net Zero...and the U.S. Army!

That's right -- the U.S. Army is paying for commercials on a TV program that is overflowing with dirty words, scene after scene of explicit sex, and some of the most gory, blood-gushing violence ever seen on TV.

And the Army, of course, is paying for those commercials with tax dollars -- your money and mine!

This must stop! Please go to <http://www.parentstv.org/ptc/action/niptuck2/main.asp> NOW and add your name to the WARNING TO THE SPONSORS OF "NIP/TUCK."

And if you haven't already done so, forward this message to everyone in your e-mail address book who shares your moral convictions. Let's build a massive nationwide outpouring of protest to the SPONSORS of this sewage -- the companies that are paying for it! Please forward this message now.

Protesting the filth on "Nip/Tuck" is critical because Ryan Murphy, Creator/Executive Producer of the show, has made it clear that he has deliberately set out to shatter every moral barrier. He told an interviewer:

"It's tough to get that sexual point of view across on television. Hopefully I have made it possible for somebody on broadcast television to do a rear-entry scene in three years. Maybe that will be my legacy."

In other words, "Nip/Tuck" is trying to pave the way for depiction of anal sex on broadcast TV!

That certainly doesn't make me want to buy a Toyota. In fact, it makes me want to tell Toyota and all of "Nip/Tuck's" sponsors that they'll never have me as a customer as long as they're paying to put filth like "Nip/Tuck" on TV.

And it makes me furious that the U.S. Army is one of the financial supporters of such filth.

I bet you feel the same way.

That's why I'm asking you to forward this message to everyone in your e-mail address book who would share your outrage about this kind of total filth on TV.

And I'm asking you then to go immediately to the Parents Television Council's special web page by going to <http://www.parentstv.org/ptc/action/niptuck2/main.asp>.

The creator of "Nip/Tuck" says he wants to make anal sex "OK" on broadcast television.

That puts him on the other side of a battle-line from me and you.

And we need to force these sponsors to decide which side of that battle-line THEY want to be on. If they want American families to support their products and services, they need to stop paying to send filth like "Nip/Tuck" into American families' homes.

If "Nip/Tuck" couldn't get sponsors, "Nip/Tuck" would not be on the air, spilling its filth out to an audience potentially including the children in over 80 million families!

So please do two things today to support the growing firestorm of protest against TV sponsors who are contributing to the corruption of children by paying for filthy and violent TV shows:

1. CLICK ON "FORWARD" IN YOUR E-MAIL PROGRAM RIGHT NOW AND SEND THIS MESSAGE TO EVERY FRIEND'S, RELATIVE'S AND COLLEAGUE'S E-MAIL ADDRESS, to enlist them in this campaign to hold sponsors accountable for the content of the TV programs they pay for with their commercials.

2. CLICK HERE <http://www.parentstv.org/ptc/action/niptuck2/main.asp> TO ADD YOUR NAME TO THE PARENTS TELEVISION COUNCIL'S WARNING TO THE SPONSORS OF "NIP/TUCK."

We need to generate a massive protest against these sponsors' irresponsible financial support of such demented filth.

We CAN change sponsors' advertising policies. We've persuaded literally scores of huge sponsor companies to withdraw or withhold their commercials from indecent shows in the past, and we can do it again now -- IF we get a HUGE GRASSROOTS RESPONSE to this appeal!

Please don't delay.

Urgent thanks!

L. Brent Bozell, President and Founder

Subject: Amish in the City

An email I have just sent to WWOR Channel 9 (NYC) follows. I would encourage you to review this matter as soon as possible.

Dear Sir/Madam:

I have just finished watching the premier of "Amish in the City" and I must say that I am horrified. I would like to think that the reactions of the 'city kids' to the Amish kids is not indicative of the way the average American would react to someone different from him or her. America is a diverse country, and to abuse members of any minority group this fashion on national television for a cheap laugh is an embarrassment to our country and the many diverse groups which inhabit it.

Throughout both hours of the show, the 'city kids' treated the Amish kids as objects of scorn and ridicule, not as human beings possessing dignity and experiences from which the wider public could learn. Instead of turning this show into a vehicle for cross-cultural exchange and mutual understanding, it is something equivalent to a hate crime.

Imagine for a moment if the Amish kids were replaced by inner-city African Americans. Or Hasidic Jews. Or members of any other group which outside the 'American mainstream.' Now imagine these people were treated in the same manner as these Amish kids. If inner-city Blacks were treated as stereotypes and scorned, demeaned and ridiculed like the Amish were tonight, there would be public outrage, if not public violence. And it would be rightfully so.

Bigotry is bigotry, regardless of the bigots' targets.

I plan on contacting the FCC and my Representative and Senators on this matter. And I would hope that your television station -- which services New York City, a city which prides itself on inter-ethnic and inter-religious tolerance and which celebrates its immense diversity -- will take a hard look at "Amish in the City" and think twice before airing it next week.

Sincerely,

Brian J. Pozun

I just saw on my Internet news listing that the FCC was going to ask the public about their opinions about violence on tv. I have no children and am over 50. However, I am totally offended by violence on tv. Also, I do not like bad and incorrect language; and I do not like pornography. I also don't like stupid comedies. I think I know why I am watching HGTV so much now.

It is my opinion that television should be cleaned up completely. It would be nice to see some intelligence sometime.

I believe it is the responsibility of parents to monitor what their children are watching. If parents don't take the time to see what their children are watching that is THEIR fault, not the fault of television studios and is certainly not YOUR job. I believe that more non-violent fare should be available until 9 p.m., but after that time children shouldn't be watching television. Please stop meddling with issues on this nature. Thank you.

AGAINST MY OWN WIFE & MY SISTER IN LAW. SO, IF YOU REALLY WANT TO PREVENT AN AMERICAN CHILDS MURDER ON AMERICAN SOIL & TO SAVE LIFE OF AMERICAN LITTLE INNOCENT & HARMLESS LITTLE GIRL,SIMPLY(PLEASE) GET JASMINE WOOD AWAY FROM HER MONSTER & HEARTLESS CRIMINAL MOM/MOTHER & DO IT A.S.A.P (BECAUSE JASMINE DOESN'T DESERVE AT ALL A BIOLOGICAL MOTHER LIKE THE ONE THAT SHE HAS NOW),PLUS- I TRULLY KNOWS THAT JASMINE DESERVE A BETTER LIFE & A BETTER MOM,BUT SHE IS IN A GREAT LIFE DANGER RIGHT NOW & FACING DEATH EVERY DAY BY HER OWN MOM. & I REALLY THINK THAT ANY OTHER LOVING ADOPTING FAMILY EVEN BLACK WILL BE GOOD & BETTER IDEA FOR JASMINE FOR A TIME BEING. SO,PLEASE TRY TO GET OR TRANSFER LITTLE JASMINE TO THE SAFE HANDS OF THE OHIO SOCIAL SERVICES IN HAMILTON COUNTY & TO THE ADOPTING FAMILY PROGRAM FOR ABUSED KIDS & CHILDRENS. & PLEASE DO IT NOW,BEFORE IT WILL BE TOO LATE. EVEN THE AMERICAN EMBASSY IN TEL-AVIV & THE AMERICAN CONSULATE IN JERUSALEM DIDN'T CARE AT ALL TO HEAR & LISTEN TO THIS MAGOR PROBLEM & THEY REFUSED TO HELP ME WITH THIS CASE PERIOD,& THIS IS SO BAD-UGLY & PLAIN SELFISH.AFTER ALL,YOU GUYS ALL KNOW THE OLD BUT GOOD AMERICAN SAY "ITS BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY",SO I JUST HOPE THAT YOU GUYS DO BELIEVE THAT & KNOWS THAT ALL TOO WELL ,SO YOU SHOULD AGREE WITH ME THAT ACTION IS NEEDED TO BE TAKEN RIGHT NOW & FAST BEFORE YOU WILL HAVE ONE MORE MISSING CHILD IN STATE OF OHIO, OR ANOTHER CHILD'S DEAD BODY(FOR GOD SAKE) IN YOUR HANDS TO INVESTIGATE. & NO MATTER WHAT HAPPENED,OR WILL HAPPENED,YOU ARE (FOR ME) 100% RESPONSIBLE FOR THE SAFETY,LIFE OR EVEN DEATH OF MY LITTLE GIRL,SO DON'T YOU JUST SAY OR TELL ME AFTERWORDS THAT YOU OR WE DIDN'T KNOW NOTHING ALL ABOUT THAT,ITS LATE ALREADY BUT NOT TOO LATE YET,SO IF ANYTHING AT ALL WILL HAPPENED OR ACCURE TO JASMINE WOOD ,I WILL NEVER EVER FORGET OR FORGIVE YOU GUYS,PLUS THERE IS GOD WAY ABOVE US WHO'S WATCHING FOR GOOD-BAD-WRONG & EVIL HUMAN BEING MISTAKES & ACTIONS.THATS ALL FOR NOW,& IF YOU REALLY CARE & WANT TO HELP ME,OR WANT TO CONTACT ME,PLEASE DO SO. Cooties

by Edgar J. Steele

July 20, 2004

I walk in the front door: "I'm home, dear."

"Were you gone?" comes my wife's quick response.

It's our longest-running gag.

Some correspondents noticed that my posts have grown sparse. It's nice to be missed.

I've been busy, is the easy reply. But, then, we are all busy. Truthfully, I've had this particular column stuck in my craw for almost two months. Kind of like a hairball, but with sharp corners. Let me explain.

When I was about six years old, my older brothers often were charged with taking me along to ball games that they might be playing in on weekends and after school. In those days, all such games were impromptu affairs, organized by the kids themselves. I would sit on the sideline grass and while away the time.

An older girl often showed up and gradually became friendly toward me. She would talk with me, play childish games with me and generally do her best to entertain me at my level. She was ugly, though I didn't know it at the time. To my child eyes (if only I could have them back!), all who treated me well were equally beautiful.

My brothers took notice of my spending time with her. "Stay away from her," they admonished me. "Why?" I asked, dutifully impressed by their serious demeanor. "Well...unnhhh....cuz she has cooties, that's why!"

Now, I had no idea what cooties were. The throw-the-dice-put-the-bug-together game had not yet been invented. I knew only that cooties were bad. And that meant I had to stop being friends with the girl who had been so nice to me. I recall to this day the hurt on her face when

I told her I didn't want to play with her any more. Of more significance, I will take to my grave the mortal shame of having gone along with my brothers.

I suppose she had a crush on one of my brothers, but that is mere supposition on my part today - more to be ashamed of, because it presumes an ulterior motive on her part.

If still alive, that girl today is about 65 years old. I would give a great deal to know who and where she is so that I could go there and beg her forgiveness. If, indeed, there is a Hell, then it is populated with people such as I, contemplating our shortcomings, slights and misdeeds while alive. An eternity of regret. Now, there is a Hell worthy of the name.

Today, when the need arises, as it does so often in this thing we call a "Movement," I plead with others not to force me to choose between themselves and others. Call it a belated act of contrition, but I refuse to abandon those who have shown me kindness. Mind you, often I will defend my friends against all comers, friend and foe alike. There's a difference, you see, and it is all about choice...my own.

For example, Brian and Ruth Christine's appeal recently was denied by the Oregon Court of Appeals. (For background on their case, see <http://www.conspiracypenpal.com/columns/tragedy.htm> and the links contained therein.) I never promised to go beyond the basic trial with them, particularly since I was representing them pro bono (in fact, I have been spending my own money on case costs for some time now). However, I have come to like and respect them, so am continuing to advance their cause.

But for our professional relationship, I would call both Brian and Ruth Christine personal friends. They are genuinely good people, deeply aggrieved by an out-of-control legal system. Their cause is just and I believe the courts to be absolutely wrong in their rulings so far. I just filed the appeal with the Oregon Supreme Court. If we get denied there, I will take it through the Federal system until we get the Oregon courts or law, or both, overturned. I will not be deterred in this case. I am resolute in my intent to secure justice for them. Mark my words.

Here's the point: I stand by my friends through any and all adversity. And it doesn't take a great deal to become my friend, either. Must be one of the reasons I became a lawyer and what drives my need to defend others under attack. That, and the kid who kept beating me up during lunchtime when I was in the second grade. He was much older (third grade) and much larger than I. We called him Munchbuns. I'm still trying to even the score with Munchbuns, I suppose.

Clearly, loyalty is one of the qualities that those who become my friends value. And, my clients...well, they certainly like the passion I expend on their behalf. And my enemies? Inevitably, they become impressed with my passion and drive, as well. Down through the years, more than one party on the other side of a case has attempted to hire me when it was all over, usually to sue their own ex-lawyer for incompetence!

It has been made clear to me by some in the Movement that I must join in the shunning and ostracizing of certain others. Again, please do not make the mistake of forcing me to choose between you and them. It is the same thing I would say to "them" in a heartbeat, of course.

At times, I suffer the consequences of not rejecting those accused of having cooties. Your enemy has to be my enemy or else. Because of that, I sometimes feel that I am on the outside, looking in. Voted off the island, so to speak. Maybe I am just being paranoid. I doubt it, though. How ironic that those who show the greatest tolerance of others sometimes end up being rejected by everybody because of a refusal to take sides in ongoing squabbles.

Worse by far, the thought has occurred to me that I might have cooties, myself. Expressing political, philosophical and religious opinions straight out, as I do, even though supported with facts and logic, is like erecting a lightning rod during a storm. The most stinging rebukes always are from those I have considered comrades in arms. To them I say: friendship is about accepting others despite differences, not because they are the same as yourself.

"We have different approaches," a prominent Movement leader said to me during a recent phone conversation. Sounds like code for my having cooties. Ironically, he was referring to my refusal to speak in code when publicly referring to Jews and Blacks. In other words, I'm too politically incorrect for his taste.

How odd to think that someone with my top-drawer education, multiple military decorations, professional record of achievement, demonstrated work ethic, obvious moral standards, solid family life, unblemished track record within the Movement (including providing free legal advice to so many), spotless reputation and lack of rap sheet (one speeding ticket in 18 years), not to mention significant followings within virtually every Movement organization, might be too politically incorrect for some Movement leaders. Of course, if I truly do have cooties, then maybe they do me a favor to shun and ostracize me. "Hey, Martha, dem KooKlucksKlanner racist fellers hate dis Steele fella, so mebbe he's ok, after all." The enemy of my enemy, donchaknow. Cuts both ways.

If I abandon those condemned by Movement leaders as having cooties, should I not abandon and condemn those self-same Movement leaders, about whom so many have said so much, some of it true and much of it false? Ex-Klansmen, more than one. Ex-convict felons, more than one. Gossips. Liars. Layabouts. Ne'erdowells. Opportunists. Womanizers. Embezzlers. Racists (and, no, I am not a true racist - we have yet to have that one out, but my book, due out just as soon as I find a publisher, will put the lie to that rumor). Anti-Semites...okay, you got me there, but you get the idea.

Having a prison record is worn as a badge of honor by some in the Movement, if you can believe it - evidence of having made one's bones, to put it in street talk. Bones I hope never to make, myself.

There is not a single Movement leader about whom I have not heard things both true and bad. Not one. None are free of enemies. Few have shown themselves to be overly forgiving of others, either.

I strive to get along with all who are anywhere near the party line of advancing the cause of traditional European-American interests. Thus, I have had no real problem with virtually any member of this grossly dysfunctional group we call a movement.

Call it a weakness. A tolerance born of associating with real criminals, engaged in truly bad behavior. And those are just the lawyers and judges. You should see some of the clients I have represented.

In line with all the foregoing, I have been asked by a great many to comment upon the so-called "New Orleans Protocol." It is a legitimate question concerning a tough issue and you deserve a straight response from me.

Here is the set of rules known as the Protocol, developed by David Duke and adopted by a handful of Movement leaders at Duke's recent New Orleans conference:

1. Zero tolerance for violence.
2. Honorable and ethical behavior in relations with other signatory groups. This includes not denouncing others who have signed this protocol. In other words, no enemies on the right.
3. Maintaining a high tone in our arguments and public presentations.

I attended the conference and spoke, as well. I was not told of the secret meeting at which the Protocol was adopted. I was not told of the intent to produce a consensus on anything. I was not asked to sign it.

Now, I have nothing ill to report about any of the fellows who signed it. In fact, I consider all of them to be friends.

I have to be honest. From here in the cheap seats, the Protocol seems to be an exclusionary pronouncement, not inclusionary. It breeds that which it purports to condemn. The Protocol, by its very nature, is critical of those who don't sign. Thus, it becomes precisely the thing that it decries: criticism of others in the Movement.

Furthermore, I would not have signed it. I have no need to pledge not to do things that I have never done and have no present intention of doing. I decry violence, abhor the internecine fighting that occurs in the Movement and always endeavor to take the high road in my dealings with others. By analogy, imagine someone asking that you make a written promise not to beat your wife. The very inquiry is an accusation. By implication, the existence of such a group pledge suggests that those who don't sign are inveterate spousal abusers.

Nor have I ever demeaned myself to make self-exculpating pledges as an attorney in the past (as in agreeing to a reciprocal restraining order when it's the miscreant about-to-be-ex-husband who's been beating his wife, my client, not the other way around). Nor would signing onto anything of this ilk enhance my ability to help people in court - on the contrary.

Nor do I like that this "protocol" smacks of "We have agreed that you can't criticize us," with the "you" being those excluded, the very people who should have been invited to the secret meeting in the first place!

I do not care for the fingerprinting and name calling that exists on all sides of every divide in the Movement, as most who have read my essays know. This "Protocol" is just more of that, masquerading as something high minded. In that sense, it seems tawdry, like a hooker dressed up to go to church

We, all of us, have so much in common and such compelling enemies in common, that we can ill afford to continue with this ongoing internal bickering, simply because some of us are graceless or possessed of political and/or religious ideologies that don't exactly track with others. We are in a fight for our very existence. The other side isn't making nice with us. While they decimate our ranks, we rearrange deck chairs and shoot some of our own best people in the back. This must stop.

You want to stop the criticism? Stop criticizing. Stop being criticizable.

You want to be intolerant of violence? That's easy. Preach nonviolence and avoid fomenting discord.

You want to be high minded? Be high minded. It is low minded to speak of it.

Had I attended the secret New Orleans meeting, I would have discouraged them from producing such an agreement formally and I would have pointedly declined to sign it. Perhaps they knew that, somehow, and that is why I was not invited. (I suspect I was excluded for other reasons, but they have nothing to do with the questions raised herein.)

In a very real sense, this column itself is that which I abhor: a criticism of others in the Movement. That is an unfortunate but necessary consequence. That is why it has taken so long for me to cough up this metaphorical hairball. It goes against my basic grain. But, what I have said needs to be said. A chill has fallen over discussion of this topic within the Movement - the very sort of chill that censorship always imposes upon open and frank discourse. And it is already far too cold in America today.

New America. An idea whose time is long overdue...

Chairman Powell:

We have a very impressionable 7 year old in our home. We are afraid to let her watch any primetime shows due to the language, violence and suggestive ideas that it brings. We do not want to have to explain to her matters that she should not be submitted to. Please clean up television! Please do not let networks continue with the filth that we watch. A fine doesn't cut it. That is only a slap on the hand. Let's stand up for what is right, taking responsibility and cleaning house of the trash and filth. My suggestion is to start jerking licenses. It would only take once or twice before the message would be sent and matters would change. Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely,

Jan Rogan

Subject: Decay of media content

Dear Mr. Powell,

I am writing you out of concern for americans. The moral degradation in our society is appalling. The amount of sexual content, coarse language, and violence on television, radio, and other regulated media has attributed to this problem. What was once considered slang language and not used by most americans is now becoming accepted as a descriptive part of the english language.

I believe this content is still offensive and whatever the form of media it does not add anything. Some would argue it makes things seem more real, but I say that it is garbage. We do not need another slang word, example of sex or violence to express emotion in television, radio, or internet. We have enough english words and actions to express emotion that are not vulgar and offensive. It is sad to say that in america many children, adolescents, and even adults no longer no how to hold a conversation without using the f-word. Others do not know how to show love without sex or to show anger without fighting or killing. Media should not add to this problem of ignorance, but should help expand individuals vocabulary and express emotion in healthy behavior. Media only for the sake of entertainment harms us as intelligent human beings. It stupefies our society.

I expect that the FCC take drastic measures by making new regulations against the use of vulgar slang words, violence, and sexual content in media. It is not even acceptable to have this content after the hour of 9pm. There is no right to be found in our constitution that was meant to intentionally harm another human, but the FCC's lack of action in these areas has kept americans ignorant. Ignorance brings harm to all. Americans perish for the lack of knowledge. Some are unable to pass a job interview because their use of slang. Others end up in jail because they do not know how to work out their problems amicably or how to control their sexual behavior. "And it's on TV, so it has to be alright" is the attitude of most. We must remove it from TV, radio, etc. to show people it is not right. Now is the time to take action before the ignorance becomes so deeply rooted that it seems it has always been that way. What it takes one generation to destroy it takes many generations to recreate. Do not allow this to be the generation that destroys the minds of americans.

Deeply Concerned,

Matthew Price, RN, BSN
